

Moonlight slices through the blinds. Angela guides Dominic along the wall. Behind them, Courtney moves with controlled fury.

COURTNEY (O.S.)
You think darkness helps you? I know every inch of this house.

Angela silently opens the bathroom door, then continues down the hall. Courtney follows the sound of Dominic's labored breathing. Angela tosses the Polaroid camera into the bathroom. It hits the tile. Courtney rushes inside. Angela slams the door and shoves the linen shelves back into place, blocking it.

Courtney pounds the door. Angela looks through the narrow vent.

ANGELA
This is the room, right? The room you could not get out of.
Courtney stops pounding.

COURTNEY
Open this door.

ANGELA
Tell me what you heard.

COURTNEY
Do not do this.

ANGELA
You made all of us do it.

Courtney looks toward the small bathroom window. Too narrow.

ANGELA (CONT'D)
Tell me what Nia said.

Courtney's composure cracks.

COURTNEY
She called my name.

ANGELA

And what did you say?

COURTNEY

I told her to stay away from the pool.

ANGELA

Could she hear you?

COURTNEY

I do not know.

ANGELA

You do know.

Courtney sinks against the door, breathing hard.

COURTNEY

She said she was going to find Mommy.

ANGELA

Then?

COURTNEY

The gate opened.

Angela closes her eyes. Dominic leans against her, fading.

COURTNEY (CONT'D)

I heard the water. I screamed until my throat bled. Nobody came.

ANGELA

I am sorry.

COURTNEY

Sorry is what people say when they still get to go home.

A KNIFE BLADE punches through the thin door beside Angela's face. Courtney saws through the panel.

Angela pulls Dominic away. APRIL appears from the kitchen, blood running from her mouth.

APRIL

Backyard. Go.

ANGELA
Come with us.

APRIL
She is not chasing me yet.

April braces herself against the bathroom door as Courtney breaks through.

APRIL (CONT'D)
Make sure they know Dominic did not do this.

Angela helps Dominic toward the back door.
